THE SENIOR CLASS OF HARRIET WHITNEY
VOCATIONAL HIGH SCHOOL
TOLEDO, OHIO

presents the

First Lady

Foreword

What is busyness? Making use of every minute is really being busy. Coming and going from Whitney every day are many busy people. The pioneers of this school were as busy as could be making it what it is today.

Each shop is its own busy unit. Sophomores and juniors have much to do preparing for the senior year and jobs.

To keep a school running smoothly, advisers, teachers, clerical and maintenance workers are needed.

In school, many purposeful activities are sponsored. There are clubs to join and other programs in which to participate.

"Busy people are happy people" is more than an old saying. If one is busy, he doesn't have time to be sad.

Let us set ourselves as good examples of happy, busy human beings! Then others may also find happiness by following our example.

Be like the bees. Be busy.

To the Class of 1957

Inspired by the thought of employment after school days are over you entered Whitney. Business was your goal.

You came here for business training but undoubtedly busy-ness has pulled you through to success. You have learned to do better those things you will do anyway, because most work is made up of a multiplicity of simple skills.

As the class of 1957 goes into the busy world, the good wishes of the faculty go with you. We trust that busy-ness will not keep you so occupied that you will not return to us with the story of your success.

*Meanwhile remember in the words of the famous English bard,
"To business that we love we rise betime and go to't with delight."*

Ethel Wooden Principal

Dedication

The class of 1957 lovingly dedicates their First Lady to one of Whitney's pioneers, Mrs. Elizabeth VonHoff.

In Rheinland, Germany, lived a large family of thirteen boys and one girl. The only girl in this family was Elizabeth Hoppe; only two of the boys are now living.

When Mrs. VonHoff was four a grandmother taught her to knit and crochet. During summer and winter after classes between the ages of six and fourteen, she attended a finishing school. There she studied needlework for two hours a day. German boys and girls go to school six days a week with four weeks' vacation during the summer. The hours are from eight o'clock in the morning until twelve noon and from one-thirty in the afternoon until four. Saturday school was only opened a half day. Mrs. VonHoff concentrated on handwork, art, nature study, and getting acquainted with others. After public and high school, Mrs. VonHoff attended Froebel Seminary and Frederick Wilhelm College in Berlin. Later she served one year as an apprentice in Cologne.

Mrs. VonHoff was married in Germany and has a daughter Lieselotte Adelheid Cordier. The Cordiers have a four-year-old, Lisa, to whom Oma is devoted.

In November, 1916, the VonHoffs came to Toledo. She taught at the Young Men's Christian Association and Ursuline Academy. Her first job for the Board of Education in 1919 consisted of teaching adult education at Scott, Gunckel, Libbey, and a total of twenty-eight other schools and has taught night school since 1923. For three months in New York she studied drafting, pattern making, and designing, and obtained her vocational degree at the University here.

Mrs. VonHoff is truly a pioneer, having been with us ever since there was a Whitney. She taught in the old Vocational Building (where the library now stands), Webster, and moved to the present edifice in February 4, 1940.

Needle work, traveling, and flowers make up Mrs. VonHoff's hobbies. She prefers living flowers to cut ones. Traveling across the ocean fourteen times always taking a different route, she has enjoyed revisiting her mother and homeland. Three years ago in December, taking her first plane trip, she returned to Germany for a final visit with her mother, who has since passed away.

Busy teenagers do not see how Mrs. VonHoff, teaching school (day and night), can do so many other things. May the graduates of 1957 profit by her example of a good life well spent and may Mrs. VonHoff enjoy years of well-earned leisure to pursue her many interests.

Vocational Training in Toledo

Vocational training in Toledo began in 1853 as old Central High School, increased by the Scott Manual Training School in 1885. The two became known in 1919 as Woodward Technical High School. Nine years later in 1928, the Board of Education designated the building as the Vocational High School, to provide training in skilled occupations to boys and girls of Toledo.

Then came a day when the boys moved into a building of their own, Irving E. Macomber Vocational High School.

In 1938 came news that the old building was sold. The money received from this sale and from Public Works Administration were to be used for a new home. The old building was to be razed, so Webster School was chosen as temporary lodgings.

On February 5, 1940, classes began in the Vocational High School for Girls.

To choose a name for the new building was difficult. After research students submitted names of women whose achievements merited the honor of naming such a school in their memory. The Board of Education settled on Harriët Whitney, pioneer teacher of Toledo.

Our school is much the same as it was when first opened. New shops have been added and some revised.

The personnel is basically the same. So as long as there are girls, there will probably be a Whitney.

Cosmetology department of Whitney started in 1940 when the senior class was made up of sixteen girls, fifteen of whom were post graduates. The teacher was Mrs. Edith Bullard.

The next year Miss Thelma Nelson came to Whitney and has taught cosmetology here for sixteen years as adviser, teacher, and friend to every Cos. 12.

In junior and senior years the girls conduct a shop. Before graduation they must have 1,250 hours of practice required by law. They must also pass Ohio State Board Examination before receiving a diploma.

In the junior year with Mrs. Tennie Allen they work on each other and later on students in other shops.

In the senior year the clientele is made up of the public. The group also attends style shows, exhibitions, beauty clinics, and so forth.

Distributive education includes all forms of training for persons employed in the distributive occupations, whether this takes place in a public school, or in the training department of a retail store. Thousands of young people enter the field of retailing yearly, many of whom later become store executives. Through initiative of progressive retailers and educators the authorization of Federal vocational education funds to encourage training for the distributive occupations was included in the George-Deen Act, approved by Congress in 1936. This authorization was increased in the George-Barden Act, approved in 1946. By these acts the Federal treasury authorized financial assistance to state boards for vocational education. In turn, state boards make these funds available to local boards, who organize and conduct classes for persons employed in distributive occupations.

When Whitney was organized Foods and Institutional Service were two different shops. The latter shop was sometimes called home management.

Foods girls received their training in the cafeteria. As in many concerns, the shop had to start from scratch having only a hot plate and an electric roaster on which to cook. Teachers waited in line along with students for lunch. The counters in the cafeteria, today, had not been installed.

Home management girls had their training in the tearoom and bake shop. When the tearoom first opened to the public, linen table cloths and napkins were used but soon abandoned for place mats and paper napkins.

Needle Trades shops began with one sewing machine, one class, one teacher for twenty-six students, including sophomores, juniors, seniors. Needle trades began in 1938 in the old vocational building then located on Michigan and Madison Avenues. In 1939 when the school moved into the new building, the Singer Company supplied seven power machines.

At this time all the needle trades girls wore uniforms of blue cotton with a white flap at the collar. A primary job for all girls was working at Steins.

In 1956-57 Whitney employs three teachers to instruct the three classes. Post graduates may enter the needle trades course.

A definite existence of shorthand is discovered in the century preceding the Christian era. The first modern system was printed in London in 1588.

The first recorded attempt to invent a typewriter is found in 1714 in records of the British patent office. The first practical instrument was made in 1868.

Office practice is one of the oldest shops in the vocational program for girls, having been established in 1934, at the Old Vocational High School. There were approximately 100 who were enrolled in 1939 as sophomores, juniors and seniors. We now have 215.

The class of 1957 can be proud of their three years at Whitney. They have learned the ways of co-operation, leadership, good attitudes in classes and the activities in which they have participated.

In sophomore and junior years these girls were unsure of their vocations. As the two years passed they began to develop into competent, dependable workers. They held shop meetings and planned programs. They took part in assemblies at Macomber and the activities sponsored by the different classes. They were also busy preparing for the annual Christmas parties and campaigning for new officers.

As seniors the girls were occupied with their jobs, homework, and committee meetings. Each shop made plans for an employers' luncheon and senior forum. They enjoyed many laughs and good experiences attending conventions.

The girls eagerly planned the major activities for this last year. There were the mid-term dance, senior trip, prom, banquet, and commencement. All this left them with a feeling of satisfaction for jobs well done.

At the graduation exercises some laughed, a few cried, but each knew and appreciated the co-operation of faculty and students in making her senior year one of accomplishment. After a hard, but fulfilled year they really are "First Ladies."
